Alessandra Fusi was born in Rome in 1984, where she attended the IED Institute of Art and Design, graduating in illustration and multimedia animation in 2006, and she has since then worked as an illustrator of children’s books, puzzle games and stationary products. As a painter she has exhibited her work in various solo and collective exhibitions in Italy, Barcelona and the United States. Her works can be found in many art books. Her two loved ones: her boyfriend and her chubby red cat, Rino. She has a true passion for animation and loves all things illustration, so she’s always learning new things, as well as teaching them, through the courses and workshops that she organizes for her cultural association “Imagoblu”, based in Bologna. She loves fairy tales, tea, music, swing dancing, and cats of course.
