Artists who champion good causes

Alicia Más is a freelance illustrator and graphic designer raised in Elche, Spain's palm tree city. After studying fine arts in Valencia, she went on to complete a teaching masters degree, before living in London whilst working as a graphic designer for advertising agencies. Animation movies, music and children books are amongst her biggest artistic inspirations. She primarily uses digital techniques to illustrate, which is exciting considering that graphic editors and softwares are continuously changing and improving. The possibilities are almost unlimited .. oh, and undoing is easy.
