

Joséphine is a french illustrator from Paris. As a child, she spent all of her free time drawing comics, this is how she decided she wanted to become a full time illustrator. After graduating from art school in 2018, she published a graphic novel about the life of the Chilean singer Victor Jara. Although she started her journey with children's illustration, she now focuses on Editorial as it allows her to express how she feels about the world in more complex drawings.
